

Progress continues on the bridge construction project for the Occoquan Greenway Trail.

The new 110-foot bridge will cross the Hedges Run stream at the site shown below. The bridge abutments have been built, and the bridge sections are due to arrive in three to four weeks. The PWC Parks Dept will have the trail (a natural surface path) realigned to meet the new bridge. The new bridge will look like the bridge pictured below which was recently installed in Cloverdale Park, Dale City. When the project is complete the temporary access road will be removed and the grass will be restored.
